Seven Generations Charter School begins Archaeological dig at the 1803 House

In 2012 an Archaeological dig was started by Seven Generations Charter School by Ryan Loughren, a teacher at the local Charter School. Ryan took several students to dig south of the kitchen and exposed important walls to a building.

